Death in the City of Light

The True Story of the Serial Killer Who Terrorised Wartime Paris

Paris, 1944. The swastika raised from the top of the Eiffel Tower and the once-vibrant city is shrouded in suspicion and fear. At a chic Right Bank address, a ghastly pile of dismembered bodies is discovered. In this fascinating true account of a case that gripped wartime Paris, David King draws extensively on new sources, including previously classified French files, to paint a chilling portrait of a murderer whose crimes devastated a city already in the grip of evil. [American] 432pp Tp $32.99

The Australian Book of Family Murders

You're unlikely to be gunned down on the street by someone you've never met. But you may well be stabbed to death in the comfort of your own home! More than 50 per cent of all murders in Australia each year are classified as 'domestic'; that is, they involve a death caused by another family member. This book contains over 20 of the most remarkable and bizarre cases of death by a family member - from fire, poison, gunshots, knife wounds and brute strength - over the past 100 years. [Australian] 240pp Tp $29.99

James Morton

Maximum Security

Housing Australia's worst criminals, maximum security prisons are settings of violence and despair. Just how rough are these gaols within gaols and what's it like to be incarcerated in them? From the brutal regime of colonial Norfolk Island to the sterile cruelty of Jaka Jaka and Katingal, James Morton takes us through the history of these sinister places of punishment, which have been home to notorious figures like Mark 'Chopper' Read, Brenden Abbott and Russell 'Mad Dog' Cox. [English] 384pp Tp $34.99

Masters of Crime Fiction's Finest Villains and their Real-Life Inspirations

This fascinating volume reveals the real men and women behind some of the most infamous London villains ever to appear in fiction. Fagin, Professor Moriarty, Moll Cutpurse and the notorious 'cracksman' A J Raffles were all rooted in the lives and deaths of real-life criminals, agitators and activists. With a special emphasis on the city that spawned them, this book brings together their stories for the first time and shows how they were woven into fiction by some of Britain's greatest writers! [English] 194pp Hb $39.95

The Invention of Murder

How the Victorians Revelled in Death and Detection and Created Modern Crime

Murder in the 19th century was rare. But murder as sensation and entertainment became ubiquitous - transformed into novels, broadsides and ballads, theatre and melodrama and opera, and even puppet shows and performing dog-acts. In this meticulously researched book, Judith Flanders retells the gruesome stories of murder, both famous and obscure. From Sweeney Todd and Jack the Ripper, to Burke and Hare and Greenacre, this is history at its most readable! [English] 256pp Pb $24.99

Pack of Bloody Animals The Walsh Street Murders Revisited

The Melbourne 'Walsh Street Killings' arose when police and armed robbers went to war. Both sides, convinced the others started the war, were righteous in the letting of blood. The packs held sway and the deeds left many casualties - and a bitter legacy. This book tells the story of that war, and re-examines first hand evidence and previously unpublished interviews. This event raised the toughest questions of the decade, spilling into the corridors of power, media and the law. [Australian] 320pp Tp $29.95

Helping friends renovate their summer cabin, Betsy uncovers a human skeleton hidden in the walls. It appears to be the body of a Nazi soldier-perhaps from the WWII POW camp that once operated not far from town. Stitching together the scant evidence, Betsy is determined to solve the murder-no matter how long ago it may have happened.
